PRICE TWOPENCE

A CRITICISM OF OUR REVIEW

To the Editor of Wessex News.

Dear Sir,

I have read with surprise (sic) and amusement the fine specimen of "Dream Literature" published in your last issue and purporting to be a review of WESSEX, 1938. Somewhere in the Tenth Anniversary Number your reviewer seems to have found the statements that "University College, Southampton, is a far better university than Oxford or Cambridge and that it is 'The Lost Horizon (whatever that may be) of all University Students.' These statements do not occur in my copy, so I presume that the reviewer was dealing with a Dream Number of WESSEX existing in the nebulous regions of his own imagination. He seems particularly annoyed because the Chairman of the College Council in his Foreword has written that "Here, if anywhere, men may still pay homage to Truth, Beauty and Goodness." The poor fellow need not worry. The Totalitarian State has not yet come into being in England, and Dr. Curney-Dixon is a very tolerant person. Your reviewer is quite free to go on paying homage to Falsehood, Ugliness and Evil. In fact, the two opening paragraphs of his review show that the first of these goddesses is his real soul-mate.

WESSEX welcomes genuine and constructive criticism; but it is a pity that WESSEX NEWS should have published a review calculated to give an entirely wrong impression of the Survey and Record of the work and development of the College during the last ten years, which, whatever its faults may be, contains a great deal of useful information, and, as far as I can see, no extravagant claims concerning the past or undue optimism for the future.

I am,

Yours truly,
THE EDITOR OF WESSEX.

The Symphony Concert

This year's Symphony Concert proved to be one of the best which has been held within recent years. The playing and singing, both of which were above the usual standard reached on these occasions, together with an excellent choice of programme, made the evening a most enjoyable one, and Mr. Cecil Williams deserves very high praise, for it is to his thoroughness and enthusiasm the performance owed so much.

The programme opened with a Suite from The Water Music (Handel) in which the orchestra responded well to their conductor and "warmed up" remarkably quickly. So often in the past the beginning of the first item has been "ragged," but on Friday evening the playing was clean and precise from the start, and the brass acquitted themselves extraordinarily well in the first movement (Allegro) of the suite, while the strings followed suit in the second (Air).

Beethoven's Fourth Symphony was separated from the Handel Suite by a choral Prelude on the tune "Sleepers wake! A voice is calling" (J. S. Bach), which was in fitting contrast to the rest of the programme. The Fourth Symphony was the high light of the evening. Although not one of Beethoven's most well-known symphonies it is undoubtedly one of the best, and its performance must have been a joy to all. The brass and wood-wind were remarkably good and showed exceptional skill. The violins sounded a little thin at times, but it is impossible to say the orchestra was unbalanced.

The only choral work of the evening was Stanford's Revenge and, in spite of the small number of students in the chorus, it was well rendered. While certain entries lacked precision the singing on the whole was good, particularly on the part of the men, whose words were very distinct; and the more dramatic sections, in which the co-operation between chorus and orchestra was most noticeable, were surprisingly effective. Only in one or two places were the instrumentalists too loud for the vocalists.

The programme concluded with a pleasing performance of the Overture to Figaro (Mozart).

The audience was appreciative, but it was small, and its size indicates the decadent taste of a town with eighteen cinemas and one repertory. The students, too, gave little support, there being less than a dozen paying for admission, while those singing did not represent the whole choral society. Why must so many, after having a thoroughly good time in the preparation and production of a comic opera, leave the more serious work of the session to be carried on by a faithful few? Let us hope that another year may bring more co-operation from town and students alike.

Editorial.

As was to be expected from so enlightened and cultured a community as University College, Southampton, the interest shown in "Wessex News" during Finals Week is almost negligible. Most newspapers, even our greatest contemporaries, have a slack season when the news columns have to be hurriedly filled with the latest account of the Loch Ness Monster, but unfortunately no strange creature has been seen on the waters of the Itchen (excepting of course, the Women's Boat Club) to make our task the easier.

We could, no doubt, fill up a few columns with a vigorous denunciation of a self-centred, apathetic, inept (etc. etc.) student body, but this seems to lack originality—and, after all, what is the use of whipping a dead horse?

In a letter published in our last issue the phrase "the clique responsible for publication" occurred; what more justification for a clique, if such exists, could there be than this; we ask you?

Although in after years one may appreciate that the few days spent taking Finals are really the least important part of a University career, there is perhaps some excuse under the present system for devoting all one's energies to it at the time. As a result of the difficulty in obtaining contributions the publication of Wessex News was unavoidably deferred till to-day.

We have pleasure in congratulating our successor, D. Young, upon his election by the Student's Council and hope that the cares of office will not weigh too heavily upon him next session.

PROFESSOR PINTO.

We offer our congratulations to Professor Pinto who has been elected to the Chair of English at University College, Nottingham. Our congratulations are mingled with our sincere regrets at losing such a valuable member of Staff as Professor Pinto, and everyone will appreciate only too fully that this loss to College and Students is one not easily to be replaced.

Correspondence

To the Editor Wessex News.
Sir,

How much longer are the long suffering members of the Student's Union to endure the childish facetiousness and poor attempts at "humour" practised by certain misguided officials who term themselves "Deputy Returning Officers"? We have endured in silence (more or less) this species of perverted wit which is used to fill the columns of Wessex News, but when such crudities extend to the Union Notice Board, then, Sir, we must protest—and strongly, too. Only last week, in a notice announcing the result of an election there was a flagrant example of this peculiarly nauseating type of humour.

We should like to remind those members of the Students' Council whose duty it should be to set some kind of example to the rest of the student-body that neither the Union Notice Board or Wessex News are the place for "fourth form" humour of this kind.

This latest incident merely serves to confirm our opinion that the modern University Student is both irresponsible and incapable of taking life seriously—and if that is so, we maintain that the sooner students cease pretending to govern themselves and, instead, submit to a healthy iron discipline, the better.

There is no place for half-wits in the Perfect University.

Respectfully yours,

J. B.

To the Editor of Wessex News.

Dear Sir,

When the first Lord Lever founded Port Sunlight in 1888, he took the wise measure of having several members of the Press present to witness the ceremony, so that the scheme might be widely-advertised at the outset. I should like to commend this early realisation of the value of advertisement to the authorities and students of this College. Why is it, may I enquire, that the citizens of Nottingham when asked the way to University College register a pained expression and reply "Oh, you mean the University," whereas the analogous question in Southampton evokes a puzzled look and "Oh, you mean the Hartley Institute."

Are the students of Nottingham intrinsically different from those here?—I doubt it. For long I have deplored the attitude of a town which while spending huge sums on a munificent Civic Centre is slow to appreciate the value of University education, but I feel the matter does not entirely rest there.

In order that Southampton should become "University conscious," a campaign of subtle advertisement is indicated. The idea might well be considered by next year's Student's Council.

Yours, etc.,
"HARTLEY BRAVISSIMO."

If you do anything likely to go down at the Going-down Concert (open to all comers) on Tuesday, June 28th, at 8.15 p.m. in the Music Studio, and are not already under contract, please see Dido Read or L. G. O'Neill. We ask no premiums, and Lloyds' keep their low.

ATHLETIC UNION

ATHLETIC CLUB.

On Wednesday last, the Club defeated R.N. & R.M. A.C. by 55 points to 47 in a very closely contested match. The Coll. field events were surprisingly good, and wonder of wonders, Walley got 3rd in the Long Jump, after a comic first jump.

The high spot of the meeting, however, was Pirrie's 2min. 1.4 secs. for the 880 yards—a new Student's Ground Record! There's no knowing what might happen if anyone really pushed him.

Congratulations to Thornhill on winning the County Long Jump Championship on June 4th. We wish him all the best in his job.

ATHLETICS.

At a time when most College games are suffering what is, we hope, a temporary eclipse, we should pay tribute to the Athletics team, which is so nobly upholding our prestige in the sporting world. The team in recent years has become more and more formidable, and this year seems stronger than ever before. On the track they have proved unbeatable, and in field events hardly less successful. Of six strong opponents, only one could beat us, and from them we exacted revenge in the return match. Substantial victories in the other matches, culminating in a smashing triumph at the H.I.C.A.A. Sports are outward signs of the club's strength, more intimately revealed by the excellent standard of performance.

But the most impressive feature (and probably the secret of success) is the splendid team spirit. For nothing comes amiss to our keen athletes—we have seen, in an emergency, a three-miler take the long jump (for the first time in his life) and even "Wally" bringing the discus. The foulest of weather couldn't stop the Inter-Coll. Sports and our hats are off to the judges and competitors who braved the deluge.

The same keenness is shown in training. A tremendous amount of hard work has gone into getting fit for matches, and under the critical direction of the captain the development of calves and biceps has been reduced to a fine (and enjoyable) art.

Indeed, much of the keenness and the success of the team can be traced to "Wally's" parental care. His own prowess needs no praise from us, but mention should be made of athletes new to U.C.S. and to "old stagers" who have run into form.

At the end of last season we lost prominent field-event athletes and middle distance runners, only our sprint and one mile teams remaining intact. But it has proved fortunate for us that we have been able to recruit Pirrie, who has yet to be beaten over 880 yards, and has lowered the ground record for that distance; and Thornhill, who specialises in a long jump of 21 feet and odd, but shines also in sprints and high jump. Of the old brigade, Dukes has shown splendid form, while Mossman and the Reed brothers go from strength to strength. We congratulate our hurdler on coming under the notice of the Hants. selectors—the White City must see more of U.C.S.

It is surprising that more students do not take up athletics. There can be few sports more satisfying, and none attracts more spectators. Yet participation seems to be regarded as the esoteric delight of the favoured few. Surely there are strong men in College who could put a shot if they were only to try it. The athletic club would welcome new blood, for at present it is necessary for one man to compete in several events. So, if you have a strong right arm, come along and do your bit.

MEN'S TENNIS.

U.C.S. 12. Old Hartleians 0.

The unblemished record of the mixed tennis team was upheld against the O.H. Among the high spots was the match between the first Men's couple and Collins (R.H.) and Ridgewell. To those spectators who remember the team which represented U.C.S. last year, it was a pleasure to see two of our best stylists back again on the court.

2nd Team results (Mixed).:—
U.C.S. 0. Arcadian Spartans 9.

I should like to take this opportunity of asking players to complete the first three rounds as soon as possible, since all semi-finals must be played before June 25th.

CRICKET.

"A bumping pitch and a . . ."
The 1st XI visited Goldsmith's last Saturday and were greeted by rather kinder weather than London usually offers. Yes, the weather was quite nice but the pitch was shocking. A well-worn cocoanut matting took the place of the usual greensward and the outfield resembled a cabbage patch. The occasional dust-storm which was stirred up whenever the ball hit the pitch only added to the general discomfort.

However, the speed with which the ball came off the matting worried our earlier batsmen and only White (30) was able to make headway. But some of the batsmen lower down the list, especially Cowling who scored 27, made up for this deficiency and the reasonable score of 117 was recorded.

But the College bowling was not up to standard and Goldsmith's first pair put on a comfortable 80 runs. The final score was 118 for 3.

Other results:

June 4th. U.C.S. 97. S.O.H. 155.
June 11th. U.C.S. II. 99 (for 8 dec).
St. Paul's, Southsea, 30 for 6).

U.C.S. v. Exeter.

College entertaining Exeter on Wednesday, beat them by the overwhelming score of 8-1, and thus passed into the semi-final of the W.I.V.A.B. championship. Although the opposition was was strong, the team, playing extraordinarily well, was not fully extended but the victory was well merited. The Exeter 1st couple were particularly good and the two victories over them is extremely promising for Saturday's semi-final.

MEN'S SWIMMING CLUB.

Owing to the indisposition of two of our most important members, our visit to Pirelli General Swimming Club at Eastleigh on Wednesday last was not exactly crowned with glory.

Pirelli's are one of the strongest clubs in the district and besides missing Marsh and Cowling, we were swimming in fresh water, in an outdoor bath. However, we are not making any excuses. We enjoyed the swim and are not ashamed to be beaten by such a club as Pirelli's.

I would draw attention to the notice on the A.U. board saying that from to-day until the end of term we are sharing our club-night at the Baths with "The Queen's" Swimming Club.

"The Queen's" is a part of Edwin Jones Social and Athletic Association and is a small mixed club of some 30 members. They will in no way interfere with the activities of our own club.

Russell Hall and Montefiore Hall please note the special concession mentioned on the A.U. notice board.

Student Health

A sub-committee of the Students' Council has been considering this question, with the object of making recommendations to the College authorities for the provision of student health services of as comprehensive a nature as circumstances will permit. The N.U.S. Report on Student Health proved a useful basis for this inquiry. This report emphasises the need and growing opinion in favour of the provision of such services by Universities. It quotes the recent report of the University Grants Committee, which advocates the provision in the Universities not only of facilities for Physical Training, but also of some form of student insurance against illness.

As a result, the following recommendations, approved by the Union, are to be made:—

(1) that all students should be required to undergo a thorough medical examination before entry to College. It is felt that medical examination should be the basis of a health scheme, since treatment of disease is frequently less important than knowledge concerning the state of the individual's health. Such knowledge prevents both undue worry over imaginary ailments and the ignoring of symptoms which may become serious. It is felt that the existing examination of intending teachers is unsatisfactory for this purpose, and that the College should issue a medical examination form to all incoming students.

(2) that a College Medical Officer be appointed, whose duties would be to file the medical examination forms for reference purposes, to be available at specified times to give free advice but not treatment, to students who required it, and to perform the functions of the existing Hall doctors.

(3) that all students should be encouraged to join the Southampton and District Hospitals Association Contributory Scheme (provided the governing body of this scheme is willing to admit them). This would provide complete cover for all hospital treatment in any of the hospitals in the scheme, or in a hospital in any part of the country where a student happened to be taken ill or to meet with an accident. The scheme also provides for convalescence when necessary. Since we feel that it is desirable that the student's financial burden should be kept as light as possible, we suggest that the scheme should be partly subsidised by the Students' Union and by the College authorities.

A. R. BROWN,
President Students' Union.

We offer our congratulations to J. F. Archard and B. A. Wareham, upon their election as General Representatives to the Students' Council for Session 1938-9.

Interlude

A drowsiness hangs still and quiet.

A velvet curtain on a summer day.

In thick, grey, heavy folds,

Sunlight, the sight of swaying trees

Slow-moving in the wind: the joyful sands,

The warmth of summer sun

Shut out.

The only sound the turning of a page, a shifted chair.

Hushed breathless dimness, chill, intensified

By moving bars of brightness on the floor.

Numbness and stupor, born of fear,

Words which stare blankly to unseeing eyes,

Day dreams and idle aimless thoughts

Of a tired brain that would must not sleep.

A weary struggle for a graduate gown.

UNION BLAZER.

The design of the new Union Blazer recommended by the Students' Council was approved by the Union at a General Meeting on Friday.

Unfortunately it will not be on sale by the end of term but students can order it from Basticks for delivery to them during the Vacation, and would probably get it some time in July.

Prices:— Ready-to-Wear 41/6
Made to measure 44/-

We learn on good authority that Mr. F. J. Sewry, B.Sc., the noted philanthropist who has contributed so much towards the new University of London buildings and, by means of Local fees, has almost built the new Union buildings here, did not go into Finals by mistake on Monday as some had anticipated.

In Town To-night

The long awaited annual "Finals Revue" was put on by the London University Company in the Library Theatre on Monday, and is expected to run for another two weeks. Seats are all one price, (six guineas), and a local entertainment tax of twenty-five shillings is payable in advance.

There was a crowded "First Night" on Monday which accorded the show an enthusiastic welcome, and there have been special matinee performances from 2.30 p.m. to 5.30 p.m. each day. A big attraction is provided by the Lady Inquisitor who is seen drinking tea with dramatic fervour towards the end of the last act; the audience held their breath, hoping that the tea had been doped by one of the Special Chemists, but fortunately the artistic merit of the show has not been sacrificed to "box-office" appeal, and the tea which she drinks is as unadulterated as that supplied by Refectory.

The Mathematics (Gen.) and English Honours inquisition scene was done especially well at the matinee on Monday.

The Theatre Manager, Mr. Charles Taylor, who is distantly related to Robert Taylor, states that the show is as popular as ever and thinks that it will be just the same in a hundred years' time. Governments and kingdoms may vanish, but the inimitable drama of Finals will appeal to all generations, he says.

The usual tropical weather has favoured the Company again this year, but we regret to see a slackening in the traditional English dress; although one might expect the Gallery to drink bottles of beer during the interval, there can be no excuse for wearing open-neck shirts in the Circle. We hope Sir John Gilbert will make a strong protest.

Several members of the audience have been heard to express their intention of patronising the show again next year. Advance Booking Fee Office—Room 19.
